MOSCOW—If you want to go to Moscow, you must first get a visa. You apply to the Soviet Consul, who telegraphs to Moscow for authority. This often takes a long time. But it was lucky, it took a favorable answer in 16 days, which is said to be a record except for the visa Harry Hopkins got in 24 hours for the visit Harry Truman made to the first trip to Moscow.

The air trip from London to Moscow is by no means a quick or simple affair. Except for important conferences or for the Russians do not allow any foreign aircraft to fly over their territory. So the best commercial route at the moment is to fly to Berlin by British Overseas Airways or the Swedish Line, continue by train to Helsinki and then there will turn to get a seat in a Russian plane to Moscow.

I HAD the good fortune to be offered a seat in the C-47 transport plane which was taking the British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, back to Moscow. This was a fortunate event, as the route, Clark Kerr has been instructed by Mr. Bevin to get to Moscow as soon as possible. He planned to leave London Friday morning and to arrive in Berlin on Saturday. I, A.M. The offer for London, RAF say it is "scrubbed" as weather is "dull".

An Allied headquarters press release said neither extent nor source of the import in 1946 has been determined. Amount will depend on availability of shipping and world supplies as well as Japan's ability to pay in commodities and exports.

Ask Year's Extension

Extension of War Controls Brings Protest in Commons

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—A bill authorizing the government to continue some of its wartime control powers for another year met opposition yesterday in the Commons after Justice Minister St. Laurent explained the need for the measure.

STRONGEST CRITICISM came from John Diefenbaker (PC)—Lakeland and Solon Lake (Credit leader). F. E. Janicke (CCP)—Kinsley said the bill was as repugnant to him as it must be to all those who believed in democracy, but he would vote for the principle. He reserved the right to make amendments at the committee stage of discussion.

Mr. St. Laurent revealed Britain had passed an act giving the government power to continue for five years the War Measures Act, passed by the Canadian government was asking for an extension of certain wartime powers for one year only.

Study of the Emergency Powers Act began shortly after Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced that meat rationing will continue in Canada despite the termination of rationing in the United States.

AT THE NIGHT sitting the house passed through committee and adopted a bill authorizing a merger of the munitions and supply departments, now winding up its war business, with the department of reconstruction.

A resolution to the War Service Grants Act, passed by the committee on veterans affairs, was adopted and the bill introduced and given first reading.

MR. KING SAID this decision had been reached in view of the "perilous" food situation facing Europe. However, the United States decision to end rationing of meat and fats, effective Saturday, would necessitate a re-examination of Canada's policy.

This means that the Canadian meat ration, set at approximately 1-1/2 pounds of boneless meat per person each week when the ration was re-instituted in September, will be marred to the silent screen here and has a daughter, now 19, reportedly living in London.

Mr. St. Laurent announced that three Saskatchewan government acts, contested by the Canadian Pacific Railway, Hudson's Bay Company, and Dominion Mortgage and Loan Corporation, were considered legal by his department.

TRADE MINISTER MACKINNON said he would make a statement shortly about trade relations between Britain and Canada.

R. W. Mayhew, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Fliley, said that a copy of the Royal Commission report on the taxation of co-operatives would be tabled on Monday.

MR. ST. LAURENT summed up the need for the emergency powers bill in these words:

"IT IS MY VIEW that if all the remaining controls were removed today the consequences would be immediate, would be drastic and far-reaching and would be sharply the cost of living would drop very rapidly, existing shops and houses would be closed, and the three most important factors in living costs, are such that sharp price advances would appear to be inevitable in all other countries."

"It would be difficult to say how high the cost of living would go before the inevitable collapse. At first, higher prices in the United States and in other countries would stimulate increases here. Later, perhaps, levels of the United States, if that country maintained some measure of control, might provide a ceiling."

HE BELIEVED that all wartime controls should not be abrogated in one fell swoop.

Mr. Diefenbaker agreed with the latter statement but contended that the bill as drafted gave the government drastic powers.

The bill called for approval of the more than 30,000 orders-in-council passed under the War Measures Act and for other orders which possibly had not come to light. In addition the government was calling for more powers than the War Measures Act had conferred upon it.

MR. JANICKE said that to those in his corner of the house who act as a requirement "as it must be to all those who believe in democracy."

He agreed with much of Mr. Diefenbaker's criticism but believed the bill could be amended in committee in such a way as to restrict the powers to what was needed.

"The cabinet is asking this house to set aside the national constitution," said Mr. Janicke, "and to give them the power to make laws to abrogate democracy and vest absolute power in the prime minister and the cabinet."

IF THERE EVER was a time when all unnecessary restrictions and controls should be removed it was now, he said, when the floodgates of production.

Had the government taken proper steps in time it would have an economic system which could not be broken by either inflation or deflation. Some control could be conceded but not the extensive powers proposed in the bill.

MR. LOW WONDERED if it was a coincidence that in every democratic country in recent years there was an increasing tendency to regimentation, centralization and bureaucracy. It was the case in the United Kingdom, United States, Australia and New Zealand.

"Even in countries with democratic institutions the totalitarian principle has become firmly entrenched by reason of the bitter struggle against those nations which would have imposed totalitarianism on the world," said Mr. Low.

He said the government should specify clearly the powers it required and those only should be voted. Parliament would soon be in session again and if further emergency powers were required they could be readily granted in emergency session Parliament could act quickly.

"Lady in Black"

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—The Minister Mackenzie King announced yesterday in the Commons the government's intention of continuing its meat rationing program. "Until such time as it may feel justified in adopting other measures."

This means that the Canadian meat ration, set at approximately 1-1/2 pounds of boneless meat per person each week when the ration was re-instituted in September, will be marred to the silent screen here and has a daughter, now 19, reportedly living in London.

9:30 A.M. Sir William Strang says "goodbye" and leaves for his office. Still no Russian. We would like to telephone the Russian airfield. But it is strictly forbidden. No contact with any Russian formation is allowed except through the liaison section of the British command. This we try to arrange.

10:30 A.M. At last, through intermediaries, we contact a Russian airfield. He says that Moscow has telegraphed that they cannot receive the ambassador's plane today. The colonel says he is sorry he did not let us know earlier, but he didn't know our telephone number. No explanation is offered of why Moscow cannot receive the plane.

WE ARE GETTING a little shy about inquiring further on Sir William Strang's hospitality, and so we ask "Could you let us know earlier, but he didn't know our telephone number. No explanation is offered of why Moscow cannot receive the plane."

MONDAY, 8:30 A.M. Arrive Galt. Sir William Strang, political adviser to the British government, will be there to see the ambassador off. There is no sign of any indisposition to the Russians.

allow the Russians to land at Galt when they are en route for England, and the Russians do not seem to mind this retaliatory action. Indeed, they accept it with great pinpoints. Some days ago they advised Galt that they had a plane having the next day for England. Instead, three Russian planes arrived at Galt. Only one pair of RAF planes was available. So the station commander suggested that the Russian planes without their machines should fly in formation with the two RAF planes in the lead. The Russians would not accept this suggestion, and only one of the Russian aircraft left for England.

TUESDAY, 8:30 A.M. Took off for Moscow. Arrived there without incident six hours and 30 minutes later. Total time for the journey of roughly 2,000 miles was four days, five hours—an average speed of just under 20 miles per hour. So much for the marvels of modern air travel!

Anglicans Plan

Drive for Funds

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A campaign to raise $200,000 for general purposes is to be launched next year by the Church of England in Canada. Announcement of the campaign was made Thursday by the executive council of the General Synod.

The appeal will be known as the Anglican Advance Appeal. At a first step members will be called to re-dedicate themselves to God and His Church and later to make a special thanksgiving.

The sum asked for in the appeal is to be apportioned as follows: Pensions for missionary clergy, $100,000; missionary objects, $100,000; educational work, $100,000; social service, $50,000; churches in Europe, $50,000; general administration, $100,000; local diocesan needs, $50,000; extension to Church House (administration headquarters, Toronto), $50,000; campaign expenses, $20,000.

THE CAMPAIGN marks the culmination of steps taken by the committee of the church, meeting at St. Anne de Bellevue last year. It was decided at that time to inaugurate a program of advance in all fields of the church's work, and a planning committee was appointed which reported yesterday.

Archbishop Derwyn T. Owen, Primate of All Canada, will shortly issue a pastoral letter addressed to all Anglicans in the Dominion calling them to re-dedication. The preliminary program, to be started as soon as possible calls for joint services at Anglican congregations in the church's 27 dioceses. Two months of special teaching will begin Feb. 24, and calls will be made on every family to revive church attendance and work. March 3 to 5 is a day of prayer for Anglicans throughout the Dominion, and Lent will be observed as a period of renewal.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

The Quest for God

THE life of man is a quest for God. It is an inner, silent seeking which may be conscious or unconscious, but which goes on till the very moment of death. Man seeks God as instinctively as he seeks for material happiness in his earthly domain.

We speak often of the spark of god that can be found in even the worst of men, not realizing, perhaps, that this is but proof of the innate tendency in all men to turn to what is good, and thus, implicitly, to the Author of goodness Himself. Possibly we find it difficult to think often of God, but in our souls there is an innate urge to give Him homage. We know, somehow, that as we seek Him, He on His part, is seeking us. There is profound consolation in this knowledge.

The quest for God does not mean that man must go all the way to meet Him, that God, as it were, stands still while we human souls grope unsteadily toward Him. For the mile we travel, God will travel nine. That is a truth to ponder. It means that every effort toward self-conquest, every prayer of atonement or praise, is not just one step nearer to God, but ten.

The quest for God is the intuitive returning of the soul to its Creator and original Possessor. He is the power that infinitely tends to His God's love and concern for every human being. It is His grace in the soul which inspires the search for Him, and unless a man willfully destroys that grace through surrender to evil, he will faithfully find Him whom he was born to seek.

Wainwright's Story — No. 41

Wainwright Comes Back to the Arms Of Free Americans

Reunited with Friends Unseen For Many Months, General Boards Plane and Flies From Nearby Japanese Prison Camp

In the penultimate article of the 41st of his story, Gen. Wainwright relates the manner by which he came back to the arms of free Americans—EDITOR.

By GENERAL JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT
(Copyright 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc. and The Edmonton Bulletin. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Maj. Lamar, the OSS doctor who had parachuted on Mukden to evacuate me, woke me at 7:30 on the wonderful morning of August 27, 1945, to tell me that breakfast was ready—the first such kind arousing I had had in years.

He had attended to everything. Two of his enlisted men had cooked us an incomparable feast of processed ham, powdered eggs, fruits, toast and crackers and coffee.

SOMEONE, SOMEDAY, SHOULD WRITE a truly fitting tribute to the American breakfast.

We had just finished our meal when Gen. Parker came to our Mukden hotel from the nearby prison camp. He had received my list of chosen officers and men, who were flying out with me later that morning, and had his men ready.

BUT HE WANTED to make one, change. He told me he preferred to stay behind until all the others had been evacuated, and he recommended that Brig. Gen. William F. Brouger be evacuated to his relief. It was a courageous decision to make for Gen. Parker, had he suffered as much as any of the senior officers, and was eager to get away.

We drove to the airport at 9 a.m. and there I was reunited with friends I had not seen for many months. Gen. Beebe, my aide Johnny Pugh and Tom Dooley, my old assistant chief of staff for supply, Col. Galbraith, and others.

We took off just before 10 a.m., on August 27, and in the air I learned from Gen. Beebe how the work of liberation came to the men at Mukden.

THEY KNEW MUCH more about the progress of the war than we at Mukden. Near the end they were the compound to peer through the commandant's window and behold the phenomenon of a well-fed American officer in obvious command of the situation.

THEY SAW THE END of their shocking ordeal was in sight, an "I'll break open what was left of their Red Cross coffee and drink it until some of the men actually became intoxicated from what was an unaccustomed stimulant. The next morning, after a sleepless night, were introduced to an American major named Henessey.

Gen. Parker at once took command of the camp, received the keys of the storehouse and assumed control of the camp's administration. He and Gen. Beebe had for some time been working out a plan for just such an emergency. A plan for a scheme of organization had been worked out some time ago. They had selected an American guard, and a staff officer whose first instruction was to double the ration.

That night four Russian captives walked through the gate. They called for the Jap camp commander.

"LINE UP EVERY JAPANESE," the Russian ordered, and then have them drop all rifles, pistols and swords to the ground in front of the camp.

"We will give you five minutes," the Russian said. "If you do not do this, we will give you five minutes."

The Japs answered the wild things to obey the order. Then the Russian spokesman asked Gen. Parker to select 20 men to guard the front of the assembled Japs.

The Russian captain in charge of the ceremony then pointed to the Russian captives and presented one to each member of our American guard.

Our guard, ordered, by marching the Japs out to confinement, while some of our men cheered.

Maj. Henessey and his men had jumped on Mukden when they came to the power of radio. Communication with Chungking was quickly established. The Japs were instructed to receive an order from Gen. Parker to select 20 men to guard the front of the assembled Japs.

Wainwright—in a deeply moving ceremony—the Distinguished Service Cross which had been awarded to me by Gen. MacArthur on January 30, 1942, for services performed in the North Luzon campaign.

IN THE EVENING after the ceremony was held to believe, even though it was spread there before me, I went back to Wainwright's office and made my first broadcast to the United States. I said substantially what I had told the reporters earlier in the day.

"Well, here I am, looking pretty old, but I assure you feeling twenty years younger than I did ten days ago."

"I imagine most of you know that because of circumstances over which I had no control, and in order to avoid what would have been a far greater disaster, I was forced on May 8, 1942, to tender to Lieutenant General Homma the surrender of my forces in the Philippines."

"My gallant troops had perhaps made a defense against more overwhelming odds and under more disadvantageous circumstances than troops of the American Army had been confronted with in the history of that Army."

"I HAD LITTLE DIRECT contact with my country or its agencies thereafter for over three years. But such contact here and there as I had caused me to believe that the Administration and the War Department and the American people had accepted my dire disaster with the forbearance and generosity which are perhaps unique in the experience of any defeated commander."

accompanying by Beebe, Pugh, Dooley, and Sgt. Carroll, the survivors of the party which accompanied me to the surrender to Homma. Gen. Percival also accompanied me. Our schedule called for us to stop at Manila to be outfitted for the Missouri en route.

IT WAS A LONG BUT perfect flight, unmarred even by the sight of some Jap fighter planes in the air as we passed over Hong Kong. We arrived at Nichols Field on the morning of Manila at 3:30 p.m., and the first person who stepped up and shook hands with me was my good friend, President Quinsan. In his party was Miss Gladys Ketchum, sister of the gallant Maj. Safford Ketchum, who was killed in the fighting on Christmas Eve of 1941.

Manila was shockingly different. The very contour of the city seemed changed. We entered Dewey Boulevard by a route which was totally unfamiliar to me, and as we proceeded down that avenue I saw that the spacious mansions which once lined it had been burned or broken to the ground. In their places stood barracks and supply dumps.

We stopped at what was left of the Admiral Apartments and went to our quarters.

That night Col. Sid Hoff, related by MacArthur, looked out the balcony in a tailor who altered the uniform Gen. Wainwright had given me in Chungking and made it closer to fitting my lowering skin.

Col. Hoff then produced a harbor, ordered dinner served in our rooms, and dumped a small mountain of jackets, shirts, insignia, laurel ribbons, toilet articles and other needed supplies in our rooms.

Best of all things, he gave me a nest 32 pillow.

I CANNOT TELL YOU what it meant to me to have a gun again. We were up and off at 6 a.m. the next morning. This time in a plane whose designation—C-54—was strange to us, and whose size, speed and luxury were hard to believe.

Shortly before noon we landed on

by Capt. HARPER PROWSE, M.L.A.

ONE of the inheritances of Canada's spinous manpower policy is the discrimination which is against those members of His Majesty's armed services who fought the "Battle of Canada." Because the people of this country lack the collective courage as a nation to make the decision, as the United States, Britain, Russia and other countries did, as to what men should bear arms against the enemy, we have tried to ease our consciences by branding some men as cowards.

WE DEPEND on the volunteer system to supply us with the men we require to take the part we felt that we should in the war. The government of this country declared war on Germany, Italy and Japan. Then they bled it left it to the individual conscience to determine just to what extent we should participate.

When it turned out that we did not have enough individuals with active service consciences to produce the size of armed force that we felt we should put into battle we considered what was probably the most despicable pressure campaign ever used by any nation with nerve enough to call itself a nation in the history of mankind.

BECAUSE (UNTIL IT was too late) no man felt the shames of Canada in uniform unless he volunteered in the first place it is not true. In the second place it has worked and continues to work a most serious injustice on many men who served His Majesty most usefully and well in the most established of the armed forces in Canada.

Once a man has volunteered for service in the Navy, for general duty in the Army or for service in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, he is surely right to presume that His Majesty placed and put him into the line of battle.

Plan to Organize Branch of Society

Preliminary steps were taken toward the organization of the Edmonton branch of the United Nations Society on Friday night, when 15 people met in the new Labor Temple, corner 10th avenue and 1st street. J. M. McKenzie, who called the meeting at the request of the Junior Chamber of Commerce was selected to be president of the group, and Miss Eva Sangster will act as secretary.

Mr. McKenzie explained that the Junior Chamber has been inspired by Russell T. Kelley, head of the Hamilton advertising agency which bears his name, to have such a group be organized while he was on a visit to Edmonton recently. He urged that those present should recruit new members so that future meetings would be better attended.

Coal Production Set Beet Yield

October coal output from Alberta mines, at 430,000 tons, shows a decrease of 25,517 tons from October, 1944, tonnage, according to statistics released Saturday by the department of lands and mines here.

Semi-officially the decrease is attributed in part at least to the miners' holiday over most of the month.

However, the year's output to the end of the same month, at 6,067,381 tons, shows an increase of 14,537 tons.

The following field which includes Canada, Nordberg, Crowns, Mountain, Park, Coalbrook, Halcroft, Lethbridge, Murray, Parksville, Pincher, Prairie Creek and Saunders, accounted for 12,616 tons in October and 15,247 tons for the year to the end of that month.

The sub-bituminous field accounted for 34,351 tons for the month and 27,455 tons for the ten months. This field comprises Ardley, Big Valley, Halcroft, Chambers, Drumheller, Edmonton, Glenora, High River, Lethbridge, Taber, Westview, Whitecourt, Camrose, Castle, High Prairie, Paduk, Heddle, Rochester, Sherwood and Telford.

While here Dr. Lowdermilk, an internationally-known authority on soil conservation, will interview the minister of agriculture, Hon. D. B. MacMillan, and other officers of that ministry.

Dr. Lowdermilk is chief of the soil conservation service of the U.S. department of agriculture. A veteran of the U.S. army in the last war, he has travelled widely studying soil conservation problems. He played an important part in Chinese agriculture in the early thirties.

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the reported contemplated action by the federal government to take over the Jesuit College buildings on Monday next?

THE ANSWERS

HARRY FOULKES, clerk: I'm not expressing my opinion without proper consideration for their families to be capable dwelling proper standard while government departments would have to take over the buildings at the Jesuit College, but they would have to be paid for them, especially as there is so much opposition to the proposed use of other buildings at the Jesuit College as a tuberculosis hospital.

FACTS FROM FORD

UNION SECURITY

In its demands for "Union Security" in the Ford of Canada plants, the Union has given wide publicity to the fact that the union shop was granted by Ford Motor Company in the United States in 1941. But what has been the experience there of "Union Security"—What are the facts about the situation? These matters were covered in a letter which was sent to the International Union, United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers of America, C.I.O., Detroit, Michigan, by Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Michigan, on November 14, 1945—and released on the same date for general publication in the press.

Facts and Figures

Here is what that letter said about the Union Shop and Check-off:

"The Company agreed in 1941 to the union shop and check-off provisions. Its purpose in so doing was not only to give the Union the benefit of membership and financial security but to eliminate a great deal of friction, dispute, and downright industrial strife. In return the Company was assured by Union representatives that it would receive greater security and that disturbances of the type then prevalent in other plants would be avoided. That contract with its union shop and check-off provisions, was hailed by Union leaders and others throughout the country as one of the most progressive steps ever taken by Union and management toward industrial peace.

"Our experiences in the last four years have substantially dispelled this hope. The peaceful relations have not materialized. The experiment has been an unhappy one. The record shows, for example, 773 work stoppages since the signing of that contract in 1941.

"During this period, the cost to the Company of maintaining the check-off system has been huge. Last year, for example the Company spent $2,814,078.36 in the Dearborn area alone to collect these dues and fees, and to pay more than 1,000 Union men in the Company's plants who spent all or part of their time handling Union business.

"From August, 1941, through October, 1945, the Company collected for the Union in dues, initiation fees and special assessments a total of $7,799,924.65.

"Last year the Union's income through the check-off system was $2,050,563.71.

"The result has been that the Union has had membership and financial security, but the Company has had no compensating security. This has become so serious that unless some provision can be arrived at in our negotiations to require the Union to recognize and fulfill a responsibility of its own, the very future of the Ford Motor Company is at stake."

Strikes at Ford of Canada

Ford of Canada has had its own history of strikes since the Company entered into a collective agreement with the U.A.W.-C.I.O. in 1942. That history records a strike in 1942—another in 1943—still another in 1944—and now in 1945 this present strike which still continues after more than ten long weeks.

This Strike Can be Ended-NOW

The proposal made by the Company to the Union on November 16 is a sound, fair basis of settlement for ending the Ford strike right now. This proposal was rejected by the Union, but it is still open for acceptance.

It proposes that Ford employees return to their jobs and wages while Company and Union negotiate a new collective bargaining agreement. It suggests that, after a reasonable period of time for negotiations, all remaining differences be decided by an arbitrator to be appointed by the minister of labor for Canada from among the Supreme court judges of the Province of Ontario. It provides that both Company and Union agree to accept and be bound by the arbitrator's decisions on all points where mutual agreement fails.

Agreement by the Union to this reasonable and equitable proposal would end the Ford strike immediately.

* UNION SHOP means that the employer can hire an employee only if he is a member of the union, or consents to become a member, as a condition of employment.

* CHECK-OFF means that the employer deducts all union dues from the member-employee's wages and pays such dues to the union

War Expenditures Bill Is Approved

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(C.P.)—The Commons last night gave third and final reading to the war expenditures and appropriations bill, based on resolutions debated during study of various departmental estimates.

The bill was given second reading last night on the condition that members would be able to ask questions of various departmental estimates.

On adoption of the measure, the Commons gave second reading without debate to a bill authorizing a merger of the various departments, now standing up by business.

Mr. Howe said that in another three years he will be a displaced person.

He said the reconstruction department was due to last another three years.

Angus Macdonald (C.C.F. Vancouver East), said he believed some provision should be made to continue the reconstruction department beyond another three years, if this was necessary.

Santa Claus Has Busy Morning On His Arrival In Edmonton

Re-Elected

He looked not one year older, though he was a little more jolly than he did a year ago, or two years ago or even ten years ago, and he was still Santa Claus to two hundreds of 1,300 children in the city.

Capital theatre Saturday morning.

IT WAS BY A three-cornered arrangement that he was able to appear before so many Edmonton children. The management of the Capital theatre had a hand in it. C. Woodwards Ltd. made the arrangements for the trip and Santa Claus had a hand in it.

On the way to the theatre, he said in an interview, "Edmonton youngsters have been pretty good and that is standard in maintenance until Christmas, they should do rather well."

"You know," he continued, "last year we were still at war, and I was worried about it. These older boys who were fighting, to visit them in the fighting lines, a choir, but this year I won't have to go in the long line anyway, though there may be many to visit in hospitals and so on. But I'm very glad that the war is over, because soon I'll have everything I need to make every child in the city happy."

LITTLE MERLE NUTBURNER was just a little perturbed when she was asked to sit on Santa Claus's knee to have a picture taken, as it was a solemn little girl who stepped up on the stage—and she was favored by the old gentleman, and was quite happy.

Albert and Edna Neebush, 1850 9th Street, Darryl Young, 1140 5th Street, Percy and Betty Lyle, 1141 7th Street, also climbed upon the stage with a score or more of other children who were taken in the patron saint of Christmas.

Before Santa appeared, C. W. Gilby, advertising manager of the Bulletin, took the opportunity to make a few remarks. He said that the company he was in charge of was a very successful one, and that he was very glad to be able to make a few remarks.

After a few remarks, Santa appeared, and he was very glad to be able to make a few remarks.

ONCE IN THE OUTER REACHES OF INFINITE SPACE, THERE EXISTED A GREAT PLANET WHICH GLOWED LIKE A GREEN JEWEL IN THE LIMITLESS FIRMAMENT...

THIS WAS THE PLANET KRYPTON!

THERE WAS LIFE ON THE PLANET KRYPTON... HUMAN BEINGS OF HIGH INTELLIGENCE AND GREAT PHYSICAL BEAUTY.

I'M WORRIED ABOUT JUNIOR. HE HAS REACHED FOURTH GRADE—AND HE DOES NOT YET KNOW HIS TRIGONOMETRY.

DON'T BE TROUBLED, MY DEAR. HE'S A TRIFLE BACKWARD, BUT HE'LL BE ALL RIGHT.

THE FORCE OF GRAVITY ON KRYPTON WAS FAR GREATER THAN THAT ON EARTH...

...IF THIS THEORY IS CORRECT, A KRYPTONIAN, ON PLANET EARTH, COULD TAKE AN ORDINARY STEP AND LEAP OVER THE TALLEST BUILDING!

IN FACT, HE COULD ALMOST DEFY GRAVITY ENTIRELY!

THE PLANET ABOUNDED IN LEARNED SCIENTISTS AND, OF THESE JOR-EL WAS PERHAPS THE MOST ADVANCED...

YOU HAVE BEEN WORKING DAY AND NIGHT ON THE MODEL OF YOUR SPACE SHIP, JOR-EL. YOU WILL WEAR YOURSELF OUT.

THERE IS NO TIME TO REST, LARA! THE LIVES OF ALL KRYPTONIANS MAY DEPEND ON THE SUCCESS OF MY EXPERIMENTS!

BUT YOUR APPOINTMENT WITH THE COUNCIL, JOR-EL! YOU MUST HURRY!

YES LARA—ONCE AGAIN I MUST TRY TO CONVINCE THEM THAT KRYPTON IS DOOMED!

BUT EVEN AS JOR-EL HASTENS TOWARD THE COUNCIL CHAMBER...

—AND THOSE DEEP RUMBLINGS BENEATH THE SURFACE.

THE SKY DARK AND FOREBODING.

THE GROUND—SHAKING AGAIN.

STILL TRYING TO SELL YOUR INCREDIBLE JOKES TO THE COUNCIL, JOR-EL?

OUT OF MY WAY, NAT-SA! I'VE NO TIME TO WASTE ON YOU!

I EXPLORE YOUR BUILD GREAT SPACE SHIPS LIKE MY MODEL. IF THE LIVES OF ANY OF OUR CITIZENS ARE TO BE SAVED, THEY MUST TRAVEL TO PLANET EARTH FOR KRYPTON IS DOOMED—DOOMED!!

JOR-EL IS A GREAT SCIENTIST. HOW DO WE KNOW HE IS NOT TRYING TO FRIGHTEN KRYPTON'S LEADERS AWAY FROM THE PLANET SO THAT HE MAY RULE?

NAT-SA IS RIGHT! PERHAPS JOR-EL IS USING HIS SCIENTIFIC REPUTATION TO FURTHER HIS AMBITIONS.

WE HAVE HAD QUAKES BEFORE AND KRYPTON IS STILL INTACT.

I DO NOT HAVE A QUESTION YOUR HONESTY, JOR-EL, BUT YOUR IDEAS ARE FANTASTIC. WE CANNOT ACCEPT YOUR SUGGESTIONS!

FILLED WITH IMPOTENT FURY JOR-EL HURRIES HOME—AND THE SHAKING AND RUMBLING OF THE PLANET INCREASES...

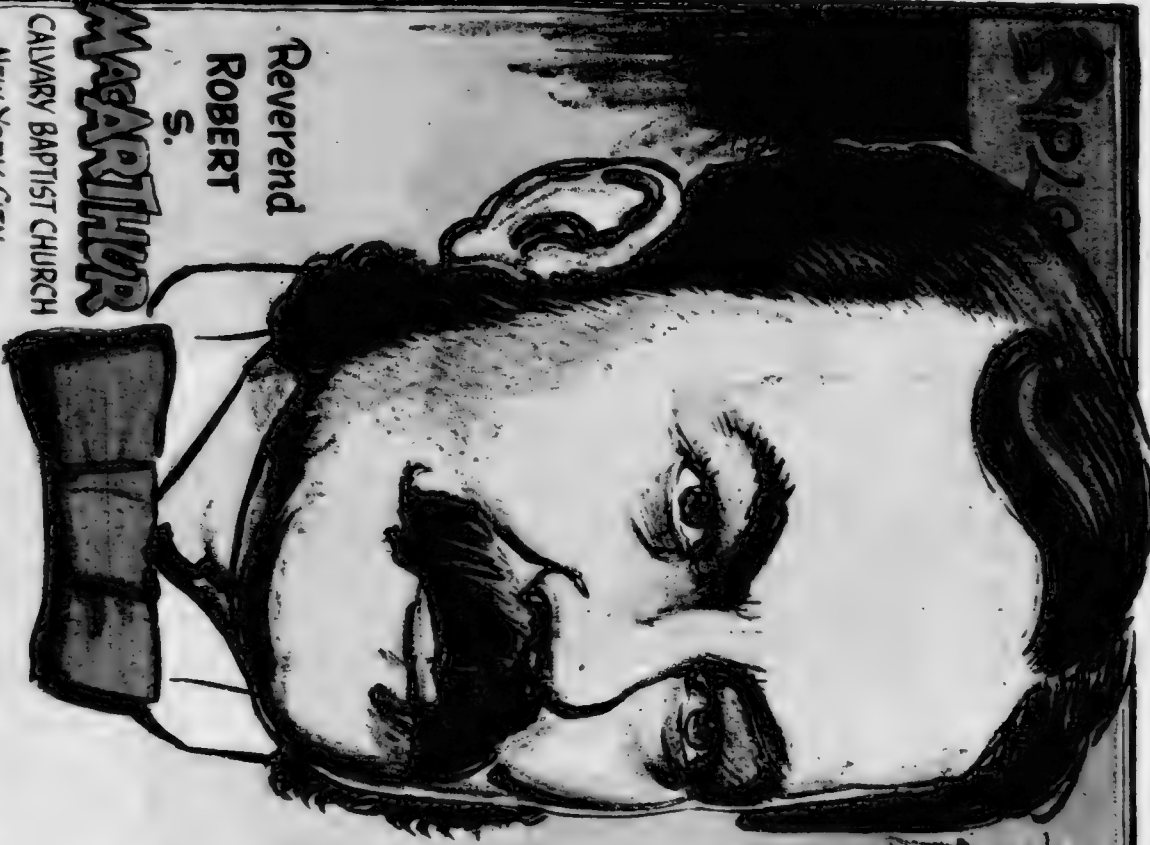

BLIND FOOLS, THEY'LL BE ALL OF THEM. I PRAY ONLY THAT I MAY YET HAVE TIME TO SAVE MY FAMILY—LARA... AND THE BABY.

INDIAN SOUP

THE Lady of Fashion was away nursing one of the respectable mice who was under the Teenie Weenie Doctor's care. The Cook had mumps. His head was swollen as big as a raspberry and he was in no condition to get the Teenie Weenie meals. Gogo also had mumps and that left the Teenie Weenies without anyone except the Old Soldier with a wooden leg to prepare the Teenie Weenie meals, and he wasn't just what one would call a first class cook. Although the meals were pretty bad the Teenie Weenies ate sparingly and said nothing, for the General never allowed anyone to complain about the food that was set on the Teenie Weenie table.

"You don't have to eat it," the General said, "but there will be no complaining."

The Duncie complained a great deal over the meals, but not in the General's hearing. "Shucks!" he growled to the Cowboy one day after a particularly bad dinner. "Let's go over to see the Indian. Maybe we can get him to make a pot of corn soup."

Now, the Indian's corn soup is a favorite dish with the little people and the Cowboy readily agreed to go along. The Indian lived in a little birchbark wigwag under some dense ferns near an old tree. Skippy the chipmunk lived in the ground under the tree, and the Indian and the chipmunk were great friends. When cold weather came the Indian went down into Skippy's hole to live. He had dug out a little cave leading from the chipmunk's main tunnel and there he had his tiny bed of soft caterpillar furs.

THE TEENIE WEEENIES

BY WM. DONAHAY

Of course, the Indian couldn't cook his meals down in the hole. He always made a fire outside the place for that purpose. He had stored away a supply of jerked frog ham, plenty of dried corn and berries for his use. Occasionally he would eat with the Teenie Weenies in the shoe house, but he didn't like living in a house because he said it was too warm. He never stayed long when he visited the shoe house. The Duncie and the Cowboy were lucky enough to find the Indian cooking a pot of corn soup. He invited the Duncie and the Cowboy to have some of his soup, and he brought out three cherry seed soup bowls. Skippy produced an acorn for his meal and the Indian filled the three bowls with hot soup.

The Teenie Weenies ate until the metal top of a vanilla bottle, which the Indian used for a kettle, was completely empty.

"Jinks," exclaimed the Duncie when he had finished the last of his soup. "That's the best meal I have had since the Cook came down with mumps."
